Suicide attempt sparks fire, leaves scores homeless

Man arrested for arson of Roxbury apartments Residents said they can't understand why Firefighters battled blaze for hours More than a million in renovations were just finished

▶ Boston fire officials remained on the scene of the six-alarm fire through 10 a.m. yesterday.

BOSTON FIRE DEPARTMENT

▶ Firefighters successfully caught a 6-year-old who was dropped from a third-story window to escape the flames.

Having failed to kill himself, Mohamed Abdul Jabar is now sitting in a hospital bed suffering from burns and waiting to face charges that include assault with intent to murder and arson.

The six-alarm fire that followed destroyed some of the buildings near the corner of Westminster Avenue and Wardman Road and severely damaged others.

Scores of people were left homeless, including Melonie Miller, who lived in the building next to Jabar's relative.

Miller, an 11-year resident of the complex, was able to make it outside through a back exit with her two young children.

"To self-destruct an apartment building, to take other people's lives … that's not normal," Miller said yesterday while standing outside the damaged remains of her home. She's staying with her mother who also lives in Roxbury.

Jabar went to Boston Medical Center with burns and "made statements" before being arrested, according to fire officials. He was taken to Massachusetts General Hospital for treatment of second-degree burns.

About 13 people, including two firefighters and a police officer, were transported to hospitals for injuries. Most of the residents were treated for smoke inhalation, according to fire officials.

Steve MacDonald, a fire department spokesman, said firefighters rescued dozens of people who were trapped on the third-story of the homes because some stairways and exit ways were blocked by debris of smoke and flames.

During one rescue, a woman dropped her 6-year-old grandson from the third story into the arms of firefighters. Lt. Glenn McGillivray caught the boy.

Officials from Urban Edge, which manages the affordable housing properties, said 18 units were damaged and engineers were assessing the structures.

More than 160 firefighters spent hours trying to get the fire under control because they were not allowed inside the building due to safety concerns. They had to spray water on the flames from the outside and were doing so past 10 a.m. yesterday.

Governor comments on 'Occupy' visit

NICOLAUS CZARNECKI/METRO

▶ Patrick

Gov. Deval Patrick visited the site of the Occupy Boston protests under the radar this weekend, sporting a hat and street clothes to "see for himself" what the movement is all about.

According to reports, Patrick said the "energy and sense of common cause" among the protesters is something to "not just respect, but celebrate."

The governor's impromptu appearance was an effort to try to get a sense of what was on people's minds.

"I think people in many ways are united by common discontent and ways in which they feel the economy is not serving them," he said after the visit. METRO/SHNS

City's most wanted list has new faces

Police add four new men to list of Boston's most wanted Men are wanted for assault, drug offenses

Boston police are looking for some fresh faces.

Four men were recently added to the list of the city's most wanted criminals.

The offenders join a list of 12 other men who are wanted as gang associates or for crimes that include murder, armed robbery and cocaine distribution.

"These are individuals that we want to remove from city streets. And we hope that with the community's cooperation, we'll be able to determine the whereabouts of these individuals and bring them to justice," said Elaine Driscoll, a BPD spokeswoman.

Police are asking for the public's help to locate the alleged criminals. They're offering a reward of up to $1,000 for info leading to an arrest. Anyone with info can contact 800-494-TIPS or text "tip" to 27463 (crime).

New faces

The Boston Regional Intelligence Center, an intelligence gathering and analysis unit, updated the list of offenders on Friday. The new additions are:

- Jason Buchanan: wanted for breaking and entering and larceny from a building
- Luis Prieto: wanted for assault with a deadly weapon, destruction of property and disorderly conduct
- Michael Bagley: wanted for breaking and entering and larceny from a building.
- Israel Montes: wanted for drug distribution in a school zone and assault and battery

BOSTON. MBTA workers have helped restore a sign that once hung on the Blue Line in 1904.

The plaque marked the completion of the world's first subway to run underneath a section of ocean water. METRO

Thirty years for 1992 rape

BOSTON. A Roxbury man who avoided jail for 15 years will now spend double that time behind bars.

Doward Forbes, 45, was sentenced to 30 years in jail yesterday for raping a woman in 1992, when he broke into her Back Bay home.

The case was unsolved until 2009 when Forbes was identified with the help of a DNA database, the Suffolk DA said.

In 2007, as the statute of limitations was about to expire, the DA indicted the DNA collected from the crime scene as John Doe. METRO

Occupiers starting Tent City daily newspaper

- Globe tells group to stop using logo for Occupaper
- Occupy Boston raises close to $3,000 in just days

What's black and white and against bank bailouts?

The Occupy Boston Globe, a daily newspaper protesters are trying to launch within Tent City.

But the real Boston Globe has told the group to stop using its iconic name and look.

"We do not condone the use of our trademark-protected name and logo by any organization," said Robert Powers, The Boston Globe's VP of Public Affairs.

Protesters have already begun raising money for the mock paper, however.

Following the launch of their online-only news source "Occupy Boston Globe," Occupiers set up an account on Kickstarter.com to collect money for printing and distributing the daily newspaper.

KICOLAUS CZARNECKI/METRO

▶ Freedom of the press?

Occupier Daniel Schneider said information is lost in mainstream news that "overlooks the inner workings" of Tent City Square and the group wants "as many sources of objective coverage as possible."

The newspaper will come in two forms, the "Occupy" site says; first as a daily, double-sided paper, distributed within the camp, and then as a weekly, full-color broadsheet in English and Spanish, delivered all over Boston.

"This paper will enable us to reach more of the 99 percent," according to the group's statement.

Apple sells 4 million new iPhones in first three days

Apple Inc. said yesterday it sold 4 million of its iPhone 4S in the new smartphone's first three days on the market, setting up a strong December quarter for the world's largest technology company.

Helped by availability in more countries and on more telecommunications carrier networks, the iPhone 4S, which went on sale on Friday, managed to outshine the iPhone 4, which sold 1.7 million in its first three days.

Unveiled just a day before Apple Chairman Steve Jobs died, it was initially dubbed a disappointment, partly because it looked identical to its predecessor. But anticipation of its "Siri" voice software helped it set an online record in pre-orders on Oct. 7. REUTERS

President blasts GOP jobs blocks

President Barack Obama called on Congress to pass elements of his jobs proposal and attacked Republican alternatives, saying his plan was the "real Americans Jobs Act."

After Republicans blocked his $447 billion jobs plan in the Senate, Obama is seeking to tap into populist anger in his campaign to get lawmakers to pass portions of the proposal, including $35 billion in aid to states to prevent layoffs of teachers, police officers and firefighters and $105 billion in spending on infrastructure.

The Republican plan would "gut regulations" and "let Wall Street do whatever it wants," Obama said in Fletcher, N.C., where he started a three-day bus tour that also will take him to Virginia. Obama won both Republican-leaning states in 2008 and seeks to hold both in next year's election.

"I need you to give Congress a piece of your mind. Tell your elected leaders to do the right thing."
PRESIDENT OBAMA

Senate Democratic leaders may seek to force a vote this week on the first piece of Obama's jobs bill, the $35 billion to help states hire and avoid layoffs. BLOOMBERG

Iran to probe plot allegations

TEHRAN. Iran said yesterday it would examine "seriously and patiently" U.S. allegations it planned to assassinate a Saudi ambassador and called on Washington to send evidence of the plot it has dismissed as baseless propaganda.

Meanwhile, Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad said the plot was fabricated by Washington to cause a rift between Tehran and Saudi Arabia and divert attention from U.S. economic problems. REUTERS

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

LEON NEAL/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

Osbourne takes it to X-Tina

So, by now you've probably seen the photos of poor Christina Aguilera at the Michael Jackson tribute concert earlier this month. If not, here is one I am regrettably reprinting for you. (My feminist and gossip sides are at odds again, with the side that gets the paycheck once again winning.)

Anyway, I think we can all agree she doesn't look her best. But girlfriend did just go through a divorce, and if you listen to the clip of her performance, she absolutely killed it — so maybe we should give her a pass this time around.

But Kelly Osbourne does not agree. Osbourne clearly hasn't gotten over the teasing she claims to have received from Aguilera over the years about her weight, and she's using her E! show, "Fashion Police," to get some payback.

"She called me fat for years. I was never that fat," Osbourne commented while showing the unflattering Aguilera photos. Her co-host, Joan Rivers, also got in on the act, adding, "Lady Marmalade got into the peanut butter again."

And just when you thought Hollywood wasn't just a huge, bizzaro version of your high school, you read this and realize it very much is. But it's just so much worse.

Lohan (finally) gets serious

With a court date set for tomorrow that could net her a year in jail for failing to comply with her community service sentence, Lindsay Lohan is trying to make up for lost time, according to Radar Online. "Lindsay performed community service every single day this past week at the Red Cross, and has been spending the bulk of the weekend fulfilling her therapy and shoplifter's course requirements. She is extremely focused on her court-ordered obligations," her rep says. The actress had been let go from one of her programs because she "violated the rules," "blew off nine scheduled visits," and "she would often bail after working there for only an hour," a source tells TMZ.

Kutcher spotted sans Moore

Ashton Kutcher stepped out without Demi Moore during the weekend, making an appearance at the Clinton Foundation anniversary concert at the Hollywood Bowl, according to Us Weekly. Kutcher, who was on hand to introduce a performance by Usher, also made mention of the DNA Foundation, the charity he started with Moore to combat sex trafficking, though he referred to it as "my DNA Foundation," a source says. Kutcher appeared to be wearing his wedding ring at the event, according to onlookers.

Martin talks about marriage

Chris Martin admits that he's only really had one serious relationship in his life — his marriage to Gwyneth Paltrow. "That's right. I'm in it," he says in an interview with CBS. "It's a giant leap. Let's face it, it's like winning the lottery." Martin, who rarely speaks openly about his family life, also says his two kids with Paltrow — Apple, 7, and Moses, 5 — have had quite an impact on his career with Coldplay. "It's made it more focused," he says. "And you have a purpose. I like what it does. Just the idea of having to work hard so your kids are OK."

Liz Taylor's memorial service

Elizabeth Taylor was honored by friends and family at a memorial event held on the Warner Bros. lot in Burbank, Calif., during the weekend, according to People magazine. Hosted by Colin Farrell, the event was attended by Taylor's children, Michael and Christopher Wilding, Liza Tivey, Maria Burton, and stepdaughter Kate Burton, as well as friends like Michael Caine and Elton John, who performed at the ceremony. "To say that the world got smaller, emptier, darker and lonelier when we lost Elizabeth is an understatement," John told the crowd. "She was a true rock."

When dog rescue works both ways

Julie Klam has helped plenty of dogs find homes, but they've given her just as much in return ◐ The author and Boston Terrier enthusiast discusses her latest book

SARAH SHATZ

When Julie Klam adopted Otto, she didn't realize that the lovably bug-eyed Boston Terrier was on a rescue mission of his own.

"You don't always get the dog you want — you get the dog you need. He was the impetus for every good thing that happened in my life," says Klam of the inspiration behind her first book, "You Had Me at Woof." "I was single at the moment. And I thought: If it's possible to compromise myself this much for something, maybe I could do the same for a slightly less hairy human."

"You don't always get the dog you want — you get the dog you need."
JULIE KLAM

Now a wife and mother, Klam has opened her home to many other needy dogs — and the occasional needy dog's surprise puppies — over the years as a volunteer and foster parent. Her latest book, "Love at First Bark: How Saving a Dog Can Sometimes Help You Save Yourself," includes stories about her rescue work in both her New York City neighborhood and in New Orleans after Hurricane Katrina. While poignant and occasionally heart-wrenching in a way that only abandoned dogs can be, it avoids Sarah McLachlan-commercial territory thanks to Klam's dry, generous sense of humor.

"Doing rescue has been so incredibly rewarding to me," she says. "I find that when something is happening in my life, my dogs are going through some of the same things, too — but then, maybe that's just because I'm crazy and I project things on to my dogs."

The Worry-Free Way To Stay Connected

Emmanuel College's Graduate Programs in Research Administration a Means to Advancement, Says Faculty Member

EMMANUEL COLLEGE

Those working in the dynamic world of research administration impact some of the largest global health and social initiatives in the country. Emmanuel College's Graduate and Professional Programs respond to the specific needs of these administrators with specialized graduate programs that address the competencies sought for sponsored research professionals at hospitals, colleges and universities. Emmanuel's graduate programs in research administration provide an opportunity to earn an academic credential and to expand professional networks. Below, Adjunct Professor Jeff Seo, a research administration attorney working in the Longwood Medical and Academic Area (LMA), discusses Emmanuel College's Graduate Certificate and Master's Degree programs in Research Administration.

How do Emmanuel College's Graduate Programs in Research Administration add value to the field?

"The programs legitimize and professionalize a field that has been steadily growing over the past few decades in conjunction with an increased investment in federally funded research. Research administrators play a vital role as stewards of these research funds, yet with the expansion of these 'hot jobs' some people simply 'fall into' these roles. Now, Emmanuel College's Graduate Programs in Research Administration provide a means by which individuals can seriously explore the transition into research administration or further advance their careers in research administration."

How does the research administration curriculum allow students to apply concepts practically?

"Students gain a fundamental understanding of the major accounting, finance, regulatory and compliance issues affecting federally funded grants and contracts. Through a rigorous curriculum, created by sponsored research experts from the neighboring LMA institutions and beyond, students acquire an appreciation for these issues and the ability to readily identify them from an investigator perspective, in addition to gaining an administrator's perspective in an academic and health care setting. In-class discussions, case studies and exercises are designed to elicit debate, helping students with the all-important skills of listening and communicating, as well as being able to identify their audience, whether it is an investigator, a colleague or classmate, and to tailor their message accordingly."

How are the research administration course requirements appropriate and relevant to students?

"These convenient, accelerated programs are especially designed to foster leaders in research administration. Coursework and assessments are tailored around current issues in research, including recent enforcement actions and new regulations, which students can immediately apply to their current positions in research administration."

What research administration networking opportunities are available for students?

"Students become very close with their classmates in their cohorts. In the face-to-face format, they immediately get to meet individuals from various for-profit and nonprofit research and health care institutions. For those enrolled in the online program, their cohort may include individuals from across the country. Our students represent employers such as Tufts Medical School, Brigham and Women's Hospital, Mass General Hospital and Harvard University. These connections are invaluable and likely to continue long after students complete their certificate or master's degree. Additionally, Emmanuel College instructors are leaders in their respective and diverse fields and can serve as a long-term networking source. I personally know that a few students have already advanced their careers simply by meeting others through the program."

What advice do you have for someone looking to transition into or advance within the field of research administration?

"There is no traditional route by which one becomes introduced to research administration. If you are eager to learn, I recommend exploring opportunities such as Emmanuel College's Graduate Programs in Research Administration. I am confident that the demand for good research and grant administrators will only continue to grow."

For more information on Emmanuel's Graduate Programs in Research Administration, visit gpp.emmanuel.edu/researchadmin.

Local Students Pursue Careers with Help from Everest Institute

For Boston-area residents looking for fresh starts on their futures, there is career help available! Focused on the success of its graduates, local school Everest Institute provides high-quality training to students at its two convenient locations in Brighton and Chelsea.

The school's dedicated, professional instructors and short-term career training allow students to get a hands-on education quickly so they can be ready for new careers. And the variety of educational paths available at Everest Institute allows students to pursue their choice of health care careers!

Everest Institute's Dental Assistant program teaches students the chairside assisting methods, patient procedures, and laboratory and office tasks needed for entry-level careers in dental offices, dental supply manufacturers, hospital dental departments and insurance companies.

The Massage Therapy program focuses on a variety of massage techniques, including Swedish, prenatal, deep tissue, clinical and sports massage. Graduates are prepared for entry-level careers in clinics, hospitals, doctors' offices, health spas, cruise ships and more.

Students in Everest Institute's Medical Administrative Assistant program learn the administrative skills, medical terminology, medical law and ethics, and medical transcription skills necessary for entry-level employment. Graduates can work in medical or dental offices, clinics, long-term care facilities, insurance companies and hospitals.

Students in the Medical Assistant program study patient care and communication, clinical assisting and pharmacology, cardiopulmonary and laboratory procedures, and more to prepare for their entry-level careers! At Everest Institute, hands-on training in the Medical Assistant program prepares graduates for work in physicians' offices, medical centers, clinics, laboratories and emergency rooms.

The Medical Insurance Billing and Coding program curriculum includes medical insurance, claims processing, collection strategies and more. Graduates can pursue entry-level employment at insurance companies, medical offices and clinics!

At Everest Institute, successful graduates are the first priority. For more information, call 1-888-225-9797, check us out online at www.EnrollEverest.com or visit our Brighton or Chelsea campus. Programs and schedules vary by campus. Financial aid is available for those who qualify.

Dean of New England Law | Boston Elected Chair of American Bar Association Council on Legal Education

NEW ENGLAND LAW BOSTON

Dean John F. O'Brien of New England Law | Boston has been elected chair of the Council of the American Bar Association's (ABA) Section on Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar. The Section's responsibilities include oversight of national law school standards and policies; conducting the accreditation process for new law schools; and reaccrediting approved law schools.

Dean O'Brien brings to this role both his unequaled experience as the longest-serving law school dean in the country and his previous service as chair of the ABA's Accreditation Committee and its Independent Law Schools Committee.

The job market for new lawyers is among the issues that Dean O'Brien expects the Council to address. "All law schools are facing the reality that the legal market is suffering, as are almost all sectors of the economy, from a pervasive global economic crisis, and we must help our students and graduates get through these times," he said. "At the same time, employment transparency by law schools is a real and significant goal that we have to address."

"Dean O' Brien has been of invaluable assistance to me in my year of leadership and is well prepared for the work facing the Council in the coming year," said Hon. Christine M. Durham, chief justice of the Supreme Court of Utah and immediate past chair of the Council. "He brings a lifetime of experience with legal education and has served the accreditation project in a multitude of ways for many years. I expect that the processes and reputation of the Council will be greatly enhanced by his time at the helm."

The Section's Council, which Dean O'Brien will lead, and the Accreditation Committee are recognized by the U.S. Department of Education (DOE) as the national accrediting agency for programs leading to the Juris Doctorate (J.D.) degree.

Dean O'Brien received a B.A. in 1973 from Manhattan College; a J.D. in 1977 from New England Law, where he graduated first in his class; and an LL.M. in taxation in 1980 from Boston University School of Law. He has served as dean of New England Law since 1988. He is a former member of Boston's civilian police review board, the Community Ombudsman Oversight Program, which reviews accusations of serious misconduct against Boston police officers.

Suffolk University prepares students for key roles in economic analysis

SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY
COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES

National and global economic issues now make front-page news on a daily basis. The analysis and recommendations of economists shape public policy and the key financial decisions of corporations around the world.

The graduate economics programs at Suffolk University challenge students to develop rigorous hands-on analytical and quantitative skills and apply statistical methods to a wide range of real world problems. The programs prepare students for careers in financial institutions, multinational corporations, consulting and law firms, think tanks, government agencies, and research institutions.

Flexibility is a key element of Suffolk's graduate programs. Recognizing that many students must balance their studies, careers, and other commitments, all of the graduate economics programs can be completed in the evening on a full- or part-time basis. Suffolk offers small size classes where students can interact with renowned and experienced faculty members in and out of the classroom.

The Master of Science in International Economics (MSIE) emphasizes analysis of global economic and financial issues. An alternative to a traditional MBA, the MSIE equips students with sound foundations in economic theory and builds strong quantitative and empirical skills necessary to compete in the global economy. Graduates of the program are regularly placed in prestigious financial, research and government jobs where they advance to senior management positions.

The Master of Science in Economic Policy (MSEP) prepares students for work in government and private-sector policy analysis positions. The program is aimed at students already employed in policy positions as well as students who plan to enter the field of policy analysis. It focuses on tax, budget and regulatory issues and provides a solid grounding in the empirical methods needed to engage in policy analysis related to those issues.

In addition to these two more specialized degrees, Suffolk also offers a more general Masters of Science in Economics (MSE), which provides students a strong foundation and a wide variety of classes to match their interests and career plans.

Suffolk's PhD program in Economics has a unique applied focus that prepares students for positions in academic institutions as well as in research firms. The PhD program offers various applied fields in Financial Economics, Development and International Economics, and Public Economics. With close interaction with faculty members, students work on various topical issues in these research areas.

Brad Phillips, who earned a Master of Science in International Economics in 2008, is now an economist with IHS Global Insight. Focusing on the Middle East and Northern Africa, Mr. Phillips assesses the potential economic impact of pending political, social and economic issues in the region. "I have to be ready to disseminate an explicit, quantified analysis of how current events may affect the local, regional, and global economies," he says. He chose Suffolk's graduate program because it "bridged economic theory with business practicality."

Because hands-on experience not only strengthens skills but also enhances prospects in the job market, students are encouraged to take advantage of the many internship opportunities available through the Beacon Hill Institute, a widely respected think tank, closely affiliated with Suffolk's Department of Economics.

To learn more about Suffolk University's graduate programs in economics visit www.suffolk.edu, or attend our next Graduate Information Session on Dec 1, 2011 at 6:30 pm at the Omni Parker House Hotel in Boston. To reserve your place, contact the Office of Graduate Admission at 617.573.8302 or via email at grad.admission@suffolk.edu.

Already have a Bachelor's degree? Become a Registered Nurse in 14 months at the MGH Institute of Health Professions

Demand for Registered Nurses (RN's) has never been greater.

Even though nursing is among the fastest-growing occupations in the country, the chronic shortage of nurses is expected to worsen in the next decade as 80 million Baby Boomers—including many now working in the nursing profession—reach retirement age.

Recognizing the urgent need to rebuild the nation's pool of Registered Nurses, the MGH Institute of Health Professions has developed a baccalaureate degree program designed to move graduates quickly into the nursing workforce.

The 14-month Accelerated Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) provides you with the knowledge and skills that employers increasingly prefer for nurses who provide direct patient care.

Designed for applicants who already hold a bachelor's degree in another field, the Institute's Accelerated BSN program requires no prior nursing education or experience.

Plus, the program offers two start dates: January and May. The application deadline for the May class is November 1, 2011.

Our affiliation with Massachusetts General Hospital, other Partners HealthCare affiliates, and nearly 600 clinical sites throughout the Greater Boston region provides students with unparalleled clinical placement opportunities.

Become a nurse in 14 months at the MGH Institute of Health Professions and discover the satisfaction of making a major difference in the lives of countless individuals and families.

Please join us on Wednesday October, 19 at 6:30 p.m. for our Accelerated BSN Information Session, held at 36 1st Avenue in the Charlestown Navy Yard. To learn more or to RSVP, visit www.mghihp.edu/bsn.

When schools say they offer student support, what do they mean?

It could mean a lot of different things. At Bay State College it means we understand that going back to school is a big decision. And, it means we understand your concerns about succeeding at the college level. That's why, regardless of how you see yourself doing in college, we see an opportunity to help you realize your potential with a community of support.

What else does it mean? It means that admissions counselors can show off our campus, answer your questions and guide you through our selection process—even before you apply. It means helping 95 percent of this year's freshman class receive grants or scholarships that don't have to be repaid. It means personal success coordinators and a closely-knit student body that can help make America's biggest college town feel a little more like home.

In the classroom, it means a wide variety of Associates and Bachelor's degree programs in such in-demand fields as healthcare, business, fashion, criminal justice and more. No matter which program you choose, it means learning in small classes from accessible professors with real-world experience in their field. To fit your schedule, it means making classes available at night or online.

As you advance toward your degree, it means having a personal career advancement team. It means helping you write cover letters and resumes, creating mock job interviews and using social media to help you get noticed. It means internships at some of Boston's best companies and organizations to build working relationships with people that can help you find a full-time position doing what you love.

In the end, what does it all mean? It means that at Bay State College, we care as much about your comfort as we do your success. It means we're committed to providing you unmatched student support throughout your college journey. It means that going back to school doesn't mean going it alone.

In short, it means Bay State is the right choice for you.

Listening to Roberta Dowling, director of The Cambridge School of Culinary Arts, you may hear her say "You'll never look at food the same way again." If food is your passion and you want to turn your passion into your career, explore the professional world of food at The Cambridge School of Culinary Arts (CSCA).

Established by Chef Roberta Dowling in 1974, The Cambridge School of Culinary Arts seeks to stimulate the senses as it helps students discover beauty and complexity within the world of food. Students are encouraged to explore all aspects of fine food and its preparation as they learn to produce dishes that demonstrate technical and scientific mastery. The education received at The CSCA provides each student with a lasting legacy of culinary knowledge that reflects common sense, diversity of culinary expression, and above all—the notion that food is a celebration of life.

Four unique program offerings make up the curriculum at The CSCA: the 37-week Professional Chef's and Professional Pastry programs, as well as the 16-week Culinary Certificate and Certificate Pastry programs. All programs place strong emphasis on both modern and classical culinary techniques and are taught by a talented staff of chef instructors from around the world. Pastry classes are highlighted by the addition of instructor and Program Director Delphin Gomes, New England's only French Master Pastry Chef. A flexible day and evening schedule allows students to work full- or part-time while attending, and class size is limited to allow for intimate, hands-on instruction. Applications for January enrollment are now being accepted for all programs.

In addition to culinary training programs, The CSCA offers an extensive recreational program for food enthusiasts. These one-time classes cover a wide range of subject matter and are designed to introduce the amateur chef to the world of specialty cooking. Whether you want to impress your friends and family with a gourmet meal, perfect your pie crust, or discover the secrets of a well-seasoned sauce—there are classes to meet every need.

The CSCA is currently accepting applications for the January 2012 Certificate and Professional Programs. Students turn life experience into class credits at Simmons College

The thought of going back to school (mastering new technology, participating in the classroom, finding a balance between work, life, and school) can be overwhelming for most people. Yet, now more than ever adults in the workforce are returning to college. Why? Recently, a noteworthy study from the Center on Education and the Workforce indicated that "people with a bachelor's degree make 84% more over a lifetime than high school graduates."* Those who seek to advance their career and increase their income are finding it necessary to obtain an undergraduate degree.

Simmons College understands the value of an education, and offers adult women over the age of 24 the chance to start or finish their bachelor's degree in a unique program that combines the liberal arts with professional preparation. Yet, Simmons also understands that work and life experience can be just as valuable as what's taught in the classroom, and therefore offers the Credit for Prior Learning (CPL) program, allowing students to earn academic credit (the equivalent of 6 college-level classes) for real-world learning. Simmons also has a liberal transfer credit policy, accepting up to 80 credits to be transferred from other institutions and/or earned through the CPL. These options not only reduce the amount of time it takes to earn a degree, they also help significantly cut down on the cost of tuition.

At Simmons, adult students comprise 15% of the undergraduate population and are an integral part of the community. In fact, adult students often achieve higher grade point averages than traditional students, and thrive within the intimate classroom setting where faculty know their names and act as mentors. Simmons also offers an abundance of resources to ensure student success, ranging from the Writing and Peer Tutoring Center to the Technology Resource Center to the Career Education Center, and much more.

Students who graduate from Simmons increase their market value not just because they have a college degree, but because they have a degree from a highly ranked, prestigious university. In fact, Simmons consistently ranks in the U.S.News & World Report annual survey as well as the Princeton Review's Best 376 Colleges.

Each month Simmons offers an Adult Student Information Session, where prospective students can learn more about applying to Simmons and completing their degree. Those interested can register online at www.simmons.edu/dix or call 800-345-8468.

The Center on Education and the Workforce, 2011 "The College Payoff"*

Graduate Education - The Ultimate Renewable Resource

Massachusetts Maritime Academy's Graduate and Continuing Education Division offers two unique graduate programs: A Master of Science Degree in Facilities Management and a Master of Science Degree in Emergency Management

Both programs are customized for the working executive and are based on a cohort model where students attend class at the Conference Center at Waltham Woods for 31 half-weekends (Friday night and Saturday), every other weekend over 17 months. The program includes a laptop computer, software, textbooks, case packets, breakfast, lunch and dinner, all coffee breaks and Friday night hotel accommodations at the Doubletree Guest Suites in Waltham, Ma.

The mission of the MMA MS programs is to give graduate students the knowledge and skills necessary to become creative problem solvers and in doing so provide current and prospective facility managers and emergency responders with the personal, interpersonal, and group skills necessary to craft and implement creative ideas and thus reduce the gap between good ideas and accepted practices.

The programs forge home the idea that good ideas are not enough (everybody has one) and that implementation is what separates excellence in management and leadership from mediocrity.

If you would like to apply for entrance into next year's program beginning in the Fall 2011 send:

1. A short (300 word max) statement of your professional objectives and how the program will help you meet them.
2. Your resume.
3. Your undergraduate transcript to jmcdonald@maritime.edu

And then fill out the online application at: http://mxapps.maritime.edu/Grad-Application/

Steppingstone Academy

A resident of Dorchester and a 10th grader at Thayer Academy in Braintree, Najat Goso is on the right path to college success. A three-sport athlete her freshman year, Najat is also a member of Thayer's Community Council, an organization that serves as a bridge between administration and the student population. She is taking six classes this year, as opposed to the traditional five. Najat took advantage of educational opportunities early on in fifth grade when she enrolled in The Steppingstone Academy.

The Steppingstone Academy is a free afterschool and summer program that prepares academically motivated students for success at Boston's competitive independent and public exam schools, and eventually college. "I was surprised at first how much homework was involved and how disciplined you need to be – but I wouldn't be where I am today without the preparation I received from it," she said. She began the 14-month academic component the summer before fifth grade, attended classes after school on Wednesdays and Saturdays during the school year, and followed with a second six-week summer session before entering Thayer in the sixth grade. Immediately upon entering Thayer, Najat placed into an advanced math class based on her knowledge of material learned at Steppingstone the previous summer.

Statistics support Steppingstone's success. Of the Scholars who complete the academic component, 99% graduate from high school, 91% enroll in a four-year college, and more than 80% graduate from a four-year college within six years. This year, Najat will participate in The Steppingstone Academy's peer leader program, where she will mentor young Scholars on Saturdays at SMASH (Saturday Mentoring and Study Hall). Steppingstone also provides extensive support services, including course selection assistance, steeply discounted SAT preparation materials, college tours, and financial aid advising. "It is important to give back to the same organization that gave me the support I needed to help me be who I am today," she said.

North Bennet Street School

Train for a career that can't be outsourced

What do locksmiths, jewelers, carpenters and piano tuners have in common ? Jobs that aren't outsourced to someone overseas... and accredited training for these careers and others North Bennet Street School (NBSS) in Boston's North End.

In any economic climate and especially in today's lethargic job market, trained professionals with superior hand skills enjoy careers that are rewarding and engaging, especially for those who enjoy working creatively with their hands and engaging with clients.

Fixing an antique wedding band, helping a frantic homeowner who lost his keys, tuning the family piano in time for the holidays or repairing a window in a Victorian triple-decker are jobs that require skilled and trusted professionals.

Brent Hull, a graduate of the preservation carpentry program and now owner of a successful contracting and historic-millwork business, says "NBSS will give you more credibility and knowledge than you could get with 10 years in the field."

Working full-time as a piano technician is fulfilling work for NBSS graduate Andy Reach. He reports that the NBSS program "provided exactly what was advertised -- skills and experience that could be directly applied to a piano-technology career – launching me on the fast track to attaining registered piano-technician status, which helped ensure a successful job search."

AN EDUCATION IN CRAFTSMANSHIP | NBSS.EDU 617-227-0155

Professional training in carpentry, locksmithing, jewelry making, preservation carpentry, violin making, bookbinding, piano technology and furniture making. Monthly information sessions.

Cambridge College Gets High Marks from Adult Students

Cambridge College

Cambridge College will be nationally known for providing quality, innovative and relevant higher education opportunities through a student-centered and participatory learning model that empowers our students, enriches our community and transforms the future.

Cambridge College
Vision Statement

Between April and May 2010, all degree-seeking, graduate-level Cambridge College students were invited to participate in the Noel-Levitz Adult Student Priorities survey. This national survey was created to measure the unique needs of adult students. It identifies the importance students place on various aspects of campus life, and measures their satisfaction levels. Among the items that Cambridge College students thought were important (and were most satisfied with) were:

- "The quality of instruction I receive in my program is excellent."
- "The content of the courses within my major is valuable."
- "Faculty are available for students....by phone, by e-mail or in-person."
- "Faculty are fair and unbiased in their treatment of individual students."
- "Classes are scheduled at times that are convenient for me."
- "Tuition paid is a worthwhile investment."
- "Adequate financial aid is available for most adult students."

Cambridge College is nationally recognized for breaking down barriers in access to quality education. Students who have overcome great challenges have always been central to the College's mission and enjoy a great deal of mentor support. Additionally, the College has been recognized for serving the African-American and Latino communities in New England, and is committed to providing one of the lowest tuition rates among private universities and independent colleges in Massachusetts.

Cambridge College offers bachelor's degree (B.A. and B.S.) programs; master's degree (M.Ed and M.M.) programs in education, psychology, counseling, and management; and a doctor of education (Ed.D.) program in educational leadership, as well as certificates of advanced graduate studies (C.A.G.S.). Students may transfer up to 90 credits from regionally accredited institutions into undergraduate degree completion programs and 9 or more credits into a master's degree, depending on the program.

Discover Cambridge College for yourself at an information session on Wednesday, October 26th at 6:00 p.m. at the main campus, 1000 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge, between Central Square and Harvard Square on the Red Line. For those further north, the Merrimack Valley campus at 60 Island Street in Lawrence will hold an information session on TUESDAY, November 8th at 4:00 p.m.

Something stinks for sure

RE: "THIS PROTEST REALLY STINKS": I hope Mr. Chimenti was well compensated for his brilliantly satirical writing. It's not like you can take the letter's content seriously.
JOSEPH CONNELL, VIA E-MAIL

Mr. Chimenti can stand up and demand whatever he wants. But when he does so, he really ought to get his facts straight. We of the OWS movement aren't bums. There are thousands of us who would love a job, but cannot get one in this economy. He is also wrong about our "shantytown." Taxpayers aren't maintaining it. Everything comes from donations. If he doesn't want to pay to maintain our occupancy, he can just not donate! But there's something else he should do: Avoid vulgarity. Unless we've reached the point where suggesting that one's opponents sleep in feces is a permissible part of political discourse.
CRAIG STALLONE, VIA E-MAIL

Where's all the coverage?

I have been following your coverage of the Occupy Wall Street protests and I have to say it has been abysmal. The latest is your complete lack of coverage of the enormous rally in Times Square on Saturday. I keep looking for letters calling you out on this shamefully bad coverage, but you are obviously too cowardly to print them. Will you print mine?
MARK DENNING, VIA E-MAIL

Weiner book is a shame

RE: "ANTHONY WEINER SCANDAL RISES ANEW": Will people publicize anything for money anymore? Granted, Weiner has his shortcomings. But who doesn't have a few flaws and a least of few episodes of regrettable behavior? It's a tragedy that private lives can no longer remain so.
DEBORAH FENKER, VIA E-MAIL

Scientists can ignore facts too

"OPTIMISTS: THEY IGNORE BAD STUFF": This article was interesting, but I was troubled by the accuracy of Dr. Sharot's findings. The study used brain activity data to determine that evolution selects for optimistic behavior. However, the study failed to show if there was a correlation between any genes of the optimists and optimistic behavior. Without this vital data, the study can't be conclusive.

Horoscope

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. If you let your instincts direct your conversations, you'll discover that you'll be saying all the right things. This will make you look warm and caring.
♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Participate in activities that serve to reinforce your faith and basic philosophical beliefs. The wisdom and strength you'll gain will serve you.
♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Lady Luck might treat you in an exceptionally kind manner by making it possible for you to participate in a successful endeavor that others already have underway.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Even though you rarely depend on others, larger benefits are likely to come your way through partnership arrangements at this time. Get out there and mix it up with colleagues.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. Follow your ambitious instincts and let others idle their time away if they wish. In fact, it's possible that you could even outdo your toughest competitors by a few strides.
♈ Aries March 21-April 19. The secret to getting what you want is to make sure the people you're involved with do as well as you. If they happen to be the winners, you'll win too.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Because you're a good conversationalist and you display a genuine interest in others, people will find you to be an extremely desirable companion.
♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. This is an especially good day to both make and save money, so keep your eyes peeled for situations that afford you the kinds of opportunities to do so. Some might even fall in your lap.
♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. You naturally possess leadership qualities, and this will extend to your organizational abilities. Look for important ways to display both of these facets in your life.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. A pleasant surprise is in the offing, when you discover that someone whom you thought bore you ill will is in reality quite anxious to become your friend. Don't hesitate to respond.
♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Engage in warm, in-depth conversations with friends when the occasion arises. Much can be gained, not only in terms of fulfilling relationships, but also from a learning standpoint.

Why 'The Cancun of the Dominican Republic' is such a hot destination Reasons to visit the tropical resort area, from luxe accommodations to white-sand beaches

Fodor's Tips

DOMINICA REPUBLIC MINISTRY OF TOURISM

Spotlight on Punta Cana

▶ The Dominican Republic has more than 1,000 miles of beaches — but the Caribbean's longest stretch of white sand is Punta Cana-Bavaro.

History

Christopher Columbus first claimed the island of Dominican Republic for Spain on his first New World voyage in 1492 and wrecked his flagship, the Santa Maria, on its Atlantic shore on Christmas Eve.

Geography

Sitting on the easternmost coast of the Dominican Republic with 35 miles of incredible beach punctuated by coco palms, the region of Punta Cana actually encompasses the beaches and villages of Juanillo, Punta Cana, Bavaro, Cabeza de Toro, El Cortecito, Arena Gorda, Macao and Uvero Alto.

Easy transport

With an atmospheric thatch-roof airport, Punta Cana has many more direct flights than any other D.R. resort areas.

Special offer

Interested? The earlier you book a vacation to the all-inclusive Barcelo Dominican Beach in Punta Cana, the more of a discount you receive — up to 30 percent. Travel restrictions apply, but the Barcelo Early Booking Winter Promotion also works at Barcelo properties in Mexico and Costa Rica. For more information, go to www.barcelo.com.

▶ Escape to here.

Carnival in the Dominican Republic

The island invites visitors to participate in the unique Dominican carnival experience. Each February and early March, more than 100,000 people gather from around the world to Santo Domingo to experience the carnival's vibrant costumes, intricate masks and parades at festivals held throughout the country.

– Go to www.fodors.com for more expert travel tips. Fodor's. For choice travel experiences.

In-demand accommodations

When deciding where to stay, Punta Cana reigns supreme for its many reasonably priced (and now luxurious) all-inclusives; it's perfect for those looking for a resort-based vacations. Despite having some 24,000 hotel rooms (more than most other islands), accommodations are often sold out, so book in advance.

Whitest sand:

The Dominican Republic has more than 1,000 miles of beaches — but the Caribbean's longest stretch of white sand is Punta Cana-Bavaro. The beaches are what first put the D.R. on the tourist sonar and don't disappoint. Washed by the Caribbean, Punta Cana's beaches rival any in the Antilles — and possibly the world.

Savoring San Juan

Puerto Rico's cuisine is as rich in flavor as the island is in sunshine Cocina Criolla isn't done right just anywhere The specialties at these authentic restaurants taste just like abuela used to make

▶ Pork

Cookbook author and "Top Chef Masters" contestant Wilo Benet is San Juan's local culinary hero. His wood-fired oven at Varita turns out a stellar lechon, spit-roasted whole pig with a tangy marinade infusing the succulent meat and crispy skin. Tucked inside the Conrad Hotel, it's also a great spot to try local snacks such as alcapurrias — a deep-fried mixture of plantains, squash and local tubers stuffed with ground beef. 999 Ashford Ave., 787-919-7818

▶ Seafood

The Waterfront Restaurant is not only known for its tranquil, oceanside setting on the Pinones boardwalk, but for its excellent preparations of local fish. Try the pastelillos, savory turnovers filled with chapin (trunkfish), the mild and meaty grilled dorado (mahi mahi) and sweet Caribbean lobster in a rich butter sauce. KM 187, Pinones, 787-791-5989

▶ Rice and beans

Family-style Bebo's Cafe started as a tiny cafetin, but its terrific local fare required expansion for the Sanjuaneros that love its home cooking, particularly platters of rice and choice of white, pinto, red or black beans. 1600 Loiza, 787-726-1008

▶ Plantains

Cafe Puerto Rico sits in a quaint townhouse in Old San Juan with a kitchen that excels at a local staple: plantains. They're starchy and potato-like when green and sweet when ripened. Have them here in a terrific creamy soup, as twice-fried rounds known as tostones or as mofongo, moist, mashed green plantains stuffed with pork, chicken or seafood. 208 O'Donnell, 787-724-2281

▶ Coffee

Puerto Rican coffee may be the only export more famous than Ricky Martin, and Kasalta in Ocean Park is where cafe con leches and gossip flow freely. Quesitos go best with a cup. 1966 McCleary, 787-727-7340

Rum running

Home of Bacardi, Don Q and Ron Rico, Puerto Ricans know their rum. And colorful Jam is the place for connoisseurs. Along with classics like mojitos, the bar pours contemporary cocktails like the Kiwi Libre, kiwi puree with white rum and lime juice. An in-house playroom makes it a great place to enjoy a drink while keeping the ninos busy. 1400 Magdalena, 787-721-5991

Niners might have punched their ticket

National analysis

It's way too early for NFL teams to start thinking about their playoff prospects. But the 49ers might actually have punched their postseason ticket with this week's win over the Lions.

San Francisco has the luxury of playing in the NFC West, where the remainder of the division has a combined record of 3-12. Last season, a 7-9 team won the division — that means the 5-1 Niners may be able to simply backstroke their way into the playoffs for the first time since 2002.

Are they for real?

Their defense ranks sec-

Pats 'D' fine with holding the Mayo

Star linebacker's absence doesn't hold the defense down against the Cowboys Spikes showing something Credit Carter, Arrington, as well

With the Cowboys' high-powered offense coming to Foxborough and Patriots defensive backbone Jerod Mayo out with an MCL injury, many assumed Dallas would have something of a field day Sunday.

It didn't happen. But why not?

Simple. Like last week against the Jets, the defense stepped up in Mayo's absence.

Take second-year linebacker Brandon Spikes. The youngster missed a good bit of time in training camp and in the preseason, and was actually thought to be on the outs with the franchise — for reasons unknown.

But, the last two weeks, he's looked more like the player who started to emerge last season, combining for 14 tackles, 11 of which were solo. He also provided pressure in blitz packages.

"I think Brandon has been improving a little bit every week — increased his practice reps and his playing time and all that," coach Bill Belichick said. "He's getting better, and he made some plays for us on the next to last possession defensively.

"When they were trying to run the clock, he blitzed up the middle a couple times and was disruptive, and we were able to get the runner for little or no gain."

GETTY IMAGES

Spikes is just one of many who impressed on Sunday. Andre Carter had two sacks on Tony Romo, while Kyle Arrington had a team-high 11 tackles and his league-leading fourth interception.

Director of player personnel Nick Caserio said Arrington is making the most of situations that allow him to make an interception — but that it's good team defense that creates the opportunity.

And speaking of opportunities, James Ihedigbo has taken advantage of his, too.

"We've had some guys that have been dinged up at that position a little bit," Caserio said. "He's smart, tough, a pretty instinctive player, and he has gone in there."

Lester: 'Rally beer'

Red Sox lefty Jon Lester yesterday admitted to drinking in the clubhouse during some games this season, but said it was usually a single beer.

"There's a perception out there that we were up there getting hammered and that wasn't the case," he told the Globe.

Takeout fried chicken was a rare treat, too, Lester said.

10 THINGS ABOUT THE RANGERS AND CARDS

What could be a very special World Series starts tomorrow night in St. Louis. Here's 10 things you need to know before the first pitch is thrown.

10 None more different — The Cardinals are among the most storied franchises in the big leagues, with 10 World Series titles. The Rangers have never won one, and have only played in Texas since 1972 — by which point the Cards already owned 12 NL pennants.

9 Texas favorites — Tradition aside, the Rangers are relatively heavily favored. They're going off somewhere around -160, to the Cards' +140.

8 Wild shot — St. Louis is trying to join the 2004 Red Sox, 2003 Marlins, 2002 Angels and 1997 Marlins as the only wild cards to win the Series.

7 WAR horses — According to Baseball-reference.com's WAR statistic, Mike Napoli (5.5 wins above replacement) is the Series' most valuable player. Albert Pujols (5.4) is second.

GETTY IMAGES

▶ The Rangers are favorites in the World Series.

6 Start me up — St. Louis' Chris Carpenter (11-9, 3.49 ERA) and Texas' C.J. Wilson (16-7, 2.94) are expected to start Game 1.

5 Pitching in — Texas' starters posted an atrocious 6.59 ERA in the ALCS. The only time an ALCS-winning rotation posted a higher ERA was the 1977 Yankees' 7.25.

4 New Bash Brothers? — Texas has a chance to become the first team to win the Series the year after losing it since the 1989 A's. That Oakland team was managed by Tony LaRussa — the Cardinals' boss now.

3 Busy in the bullpen — The St. Louis bullpen was only mediocre in the regular season, posting a 3.95 ERA. But it excelled in the NLCS, pitching more total innings than the Cardinals' starters and putting up a sterling 1.58 ERA. The notoriously matchup-obsessed LaRussa made a record 28 pitching changes, breaking his own NLCS record.

2 Red hot — Relatively unheralded NLCS MVP David Freese enters the Series on an unreal streak. He's hit safely in 10 straight games, with five doubles, four HRs and 14 RBIs in the postseason. ALCS MVP Nelson Cruz, meanwhile, has six playoff dingers.

1 Doing without — Both teams are here despite losing key members of their rotation. Cliff Lee departed Texas as an offseason free agent, and St. Louis' Adam Wainwright blew out his right elbow way back in February.

Racing world reacts to death

Yesterday's reaction to the death of IndyCar star Dan Wheldon in a horrific crash at Las Vegas Motor Speedway was a mixture of sorrow and calls for increased safety in the series.

Wheldon, 33, was mourned in his native England, where his father called him "a true champion and a gentleman."

"Daniel was born to be a racer and yesterday left us doing what he loved to do," Clive Wheldon told reporters in the village of Emberton, in southeastern England.

Flowers and candles were left outside Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where Wheldon won the 2005 and '11 Indianapolis 500 races.
